

Employee Learning Policy

Competitive advantage is sustained by having sufficient and appropriate skills to deliver business objectives. Businesses should establish an environment that facilitates learning and ensures the levels of training and competence required by local regulation.